Attention: Compliance Department

On or about June 19, 1997, I entered into a Retail Business Agreement with International Heritage. Several weeks after I received my kit, and after reviewing the contents I solicited the help of another representative, Tommy Logan, #001492438, to train me to the point I might feel comfortable extending this opportunity to someone else. After several weeks of educating myself, I was ready to proceed in getting "my two" and so on. It was then I was told that the program, its compensation and some of its products were about to change radically. As I went to a weekly meeting, I found that I was going to have to work significantly more for less money. This is not what I signed up for. I was not deceived but feel that I have no hope in signing up any of my friends as the program is not attractive enough for my circle of acquaintances. I never had any intentions of going beyond my area of influence and IHI should not, in good faith, expect me to do more than I originally agreed to do. I have not used anything in my kit, so I will gladly return it to the company.

With this having been stated, I am officially requesting my money back. I look forward to your speedy reply, as I wish to resolve this issue in an expedient manner.

Sincerely,

Arthur Baylor
